1980 U.S. Census Data

United Community Planning Corporation (UCPC) is a non-profit, citizen-led human services planning and research organization which has provided services to the Greater Boston community for over 60 years. UCPC is partially funded by the United Way of Massachusetts Bay and is its planning partner. It also receives grants from foundations and contracts from various public and private agencies. UCPC's Census project is funded in part with a grant from the Permanent Charity Fund, Inc.

Note to Census Data Users
Summary Tape File (STF) 3A -- Sample Data

Data tables presented in these printouts were extracted from Summary Tape File (STF) 3A. These data were gathered from the 1980 Census long form questionnaires which had been filled out by an approximate 20% sample of the population. The data were then weighted using reliable estimation factors to reflect the characteristics of the entire population. These data, therefore, are sample data only, and may not exactly match data previously released by the Bureau of the Census.

While the 1980 Census data is the newest and best data available of its kind, it should be noted that the Census was taken in April of 1980. This means that the aging process of these data is quite well along, and that many areas within Boston and the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) may have already experienced change since 1980 in their social and economic characteristics. United Community Planning Corporation, therefore, presents the numbers enumerated in the 1980 Census as social indicators of population and household characteristics, but not as absolute figures.

NOTE: ASTERISKS (*) ON THESE PRINTOUTS REPRESENT DATA CATEGORIES WHICH WERE SUPPRESSED BY THE BUREAU OF THE CENSUS FOR PURPOSES OF CONFIDENTIALITY.

SUPPRESSION

Maintaining confidentiality of individuals' social and economic characteristics collected during the 1980 Census is required by national law. One way this is achieved is through providing data only for groups of persons residing within specific geographic areas, rather than providing data on each individual or household from whom data were collected. Although the data presented are geographically aggregated, there are times when, due to specific racial, ethnic, or economic characteristics, small numbers of persons residing in an area may be identified. In order to prevent this, the Bureau of the Census suppresses data if fewer than a specified number of persons having certain characteristics appear.

On Summary Tape File (STF) 3A data were suppressed if fewer than 30 total persons, households, or families having specific racial, ethnic, or economic characteristics lived in the geographic area being summarized (in these printouts, this is the TRACT level). In the majority of data tables presented in these printouts, suppression does not occur. On two tables, however, namely "Race by School Enrollment" and "Race by Poverty Status" (both are cross-tabulated) suppression is quite evident. The overall effect of suppression within tracts is that data will either be omitted, or the total number of persons having the characteristics being analyzed will be understated. The Area Total on these printouts, however, represents the actual total of persons within the town or neighborhood within these categories (estimated up from the tract level) except where noted with an asterisk (*).

Within these cross-tabulated tables, two types of suppression are in operation. The first type is termed "Primary Suppression" and affects only the data category for the tract(s) being summarized. An example of this type of suppression would be if fewer than 30 persons of a specific racial or ethnic group lived within the tract, the data for these people would be omitted -- but only for the data category of that tract.

The second type of suppression which occurs on these printouts is termed "Complimentary" suppression. Very simply, complimentary suppression occurs only on small numbers of persons of specific racial or ethnic groups can be derived using subtraction, if all data for other racial groups is presented. In order to prevent these people from being identified, the Bureau of the Census suppresses data not only for that specific racial/ethnic group, but also for all other racial/ethnic groups, or the next racial group having a small population within the area. An example would be if the Whites lived in a tract and all other persons in that tract were White, all data categories would be suppressed as well as all categories for Whites. This type of suppression can have significant effects on the total counts of persons by race/ethnic origin and should be interpreted with caution.

Below is a list of definitions which will be helpful for understanding symbols and terms noted on these printouts:

Area Total: On printouts for all towns having fewer than ten tracts, the Area Total represents the actual town totals of persons within the categories being referenced, unless otherwise noted with an asterisk (*).

Area Total for Towns with Over Ten Tracts: Area totals for towns having over ten tracts, or which have more than one page of data per table set, represent the total of the tracts appearing on that page only. In order to derive the total persons residing in the town, add the area totals from the two or three pages of data together.

Universe: The term "Universe" explains the group of individuals, households, or families from whom data presented in the table are derived. For example, on the "Sex by Labor Force Status" table, the "Universe" was total persons 16 years and over. This means that only data taken from questionnaires filled out by persons over the age of 15 were used to calculate this table.

Median Income: The median income for towns having more than ten tracts is presented only under the Area Total of the first page of the "Household Characteristics" sheet for each town. For all other towns, the median income for the town is presented under the Area Total, as usual.

PLEASE NOTE

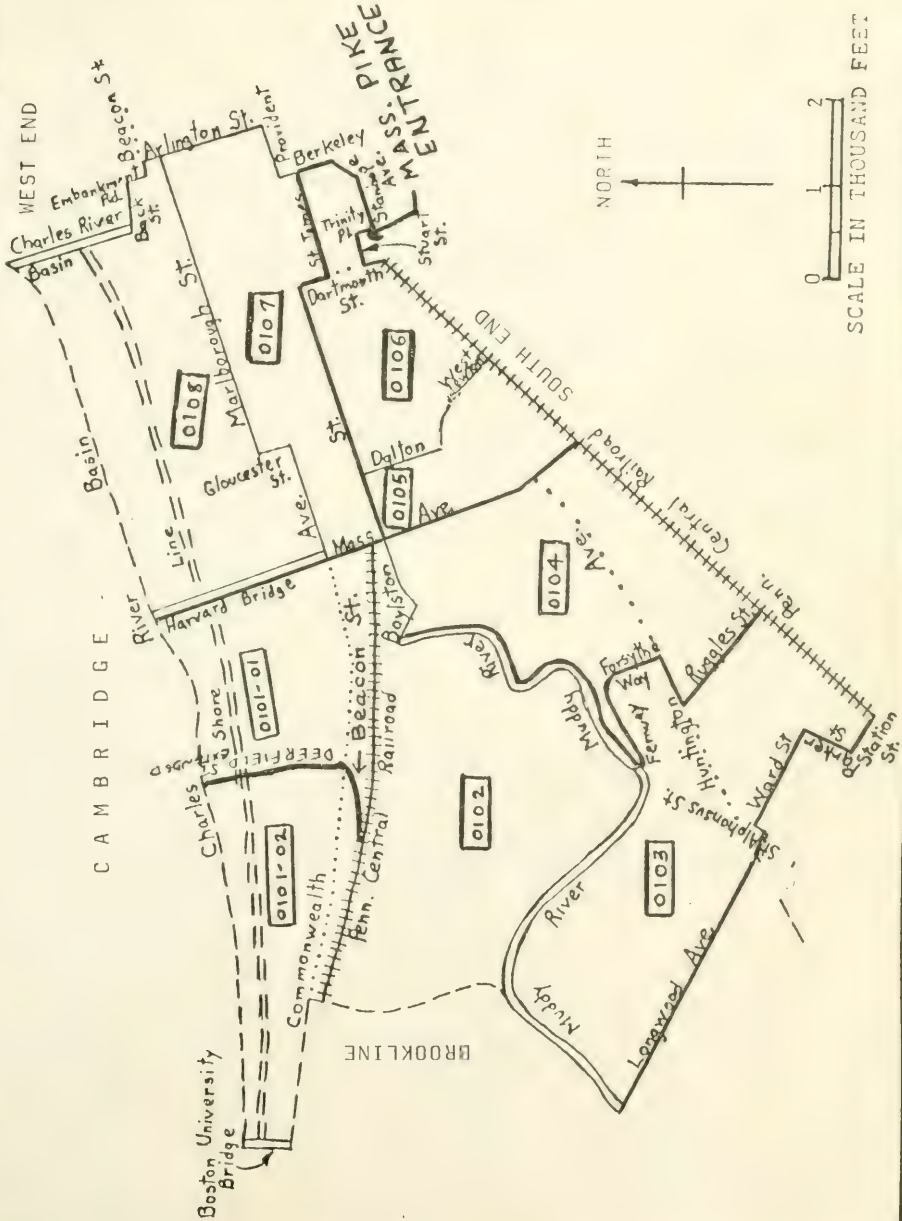

UCPC staff make every attempt to insure that all data are accurately transcribed from Census Bureau documents and tape files. The accuracy of these sources is usually good, but UCPC cannot warrant their total accuracy. We also realize that despite good quality control procedures, data processing errors can escape our detection. Therefore, if any of the data presented in the attached reports appear to be in error, please request clarification from UCPC staff. We will then make any required corrections so that future data users will benefit from this revised information.

In some cases, slight differences may appear between town totals summarized from the town level, and town totals which are summarized through aggregating tracts together. These differences are due to the different methods applied when estimating tract data or estimating town data by the Bureau of the Census. In most cases, however, tract data aggregated together to reflect the total town population should not vary more than 2% from the actual town total stated in other documents.

Though the United Community Planning Corporation has prepared the maps and the printed information in this volume, its pagination, table of contents and introduction is the work of the Government Documents Department at the Boston Public Library.

In order to make the data as useful as possible, a table of contents serves as the guide to Boston's many neighborhoods. Generally speaking there are approximately 16 neighborhoods with commonly recognized boundaries. It is these "areas" by which the data in this report are arranged. However, there are other areas that are usually thought of as neighborhoods. The Table of Contents lists many of these and refers the user to the appropriate sections in the body of the volume. The boundary demarcations are those utilized by the U.S. Bureau of the Census in its special microfiche tabulation of this data for the 1980 Census of Population and Housing Neighborhood Statistics Program. In referencing the particular tract numbers which make up a neighborhood, it will be noted that often it is indicated that only a part of the neighborhood is in that tract. To obtain more accurate data in such cases it is necessary to refer to the Block Statistics for Boston. Neighborhood Statistics Program fiche contains a listing of neighborhoods indicating which blocks of particular tracts are in specific neighborhoods. It should be noted, however, that block data is not as comprehensive as tract data and information is given only on general characteristics of population and housing.
